Unemployed Suffer.

The storm of the past two days has taxed to capacity the municipal lodging houses, as well as all other institutions which care for the "army of the unemployed" in New York. Nearly 2,000 men were sheltered at the Muni-cipal Lodging House, while as many more availed themselves of shelte-elsewhere. Thousands of other men either walked the streets or snatched a ent Yorke, of the Municipal Lodging The Tampico line is still out of commission, however, and an oil famine is threatening to cause suspension of railroad service and the factories.
